Florula del Parque Nacional Natural Amacayacu Amazonas, Colombia is one of the many botanical inventory projects developed in the 1980s by the Missouri Botanical Garden to study biodiversity in the Neotropics. This book presents, in Spanish, the results of a truly collaborative effort between the Missouri Botanical Garden, the national Institute of Natural Sciences of Colombia, and the Division of National Parks of the Colombian government with funding provided primarily by the John D. and Catherine T MacArthur Foundation.
